

Building a Bigger Majority

 Hillary has won far more competitive House districts than Sen. Obama.

 Hillary is the strongest candidate to top the Democratic ticket in tough districts in November.

In 2006, the Democrats retook Congress by picking up 31 new seats.

20 of those freshman Democrats are in Republicanleaning districts that voted for President Bush in 2004.

These freshmen need a nominee who can compete in their tough districts.
