September 25, 2009

The woman that brought a tip to the St. Augustine Record last Wednesday has come to the Putnam County Sheriff's Office today to help clarify information. She voluntarily came to the Sheriff's Office after learning that detectives were trying to find her in order to talk to her to further.

The woman's identity, as well as the information she provided, is not being released at this time. She told officers that she was a messenger delivering the letter for someone else. Detectives are continuing to follow up, hoping that the clarification will make the tip useful.
