PADRAIG HARRINGTON SEIZES HIS MOMENT, CAPTURES BRITISH OPEN TO EARN A RETURN TRIP TO THE PGA GRAND SLAM OF GOLF

Padraig Harrington is the British Open Champion

Striding down the 18th fairway at Royal Birkdale, with a four-stroke lead in his pocket, Padraig Harrington paused to pay respects to the man who had been chasing him and history over the final round of the 137th British Open Championship.

Harrington spoke to Greg Norman, a man who has more than a veteran's fill of the highs and lows of major championship golf.

"I did say to him coming down 18 that I was sorry it wasn't his story that was going to be told," said Harrington. "I did feel that, but I

WHERE THIS YEAR'S FINAL MAJOR CHAMPION WILL BE CROWNED

The home of major championship golf since 1924, Oakland Hills Country Club has remained one of the most honored venues in golf. Positioned 20 miles northwest of Detroit, Oakland Hills Country Club enters the 2008 season having hosted six U.S. Open Championships, two PGA Championships, two U.S. Senior Opens and the 2004 Ryder Cup. With that heritage, it also is not surprising that Oakland Hills Country Club has been guided by premier professionals – three of whom competed on a U.S. Ryder Cup Team – Walter Hagen, Al Watrous and Mike Souchak. In August 2008, a world-class field competing in the 90th PGA Championship will find a longer and even more challenging Oakland Hills. The 1996 U.S. Open, the last major conducted on the South Course, was played at 6,974 yards. The PGA Championship field will be tested at 7,395 yards and find new changes courtesy of the craftsmanship of Rees Jones, son of the late Robert Trent Jones Sr., who had followed the original design of Donald Ross (1918) and set the stage for making Oakland Hills keep in step with the ongoing improvements in both golf ball and golf equipment.

wanted to win myself. In this game, you have to take your chances when you get them.”

As a result, Harrington seized the opportunity by hitting a pair of fairway metals into the par-5s that carried him to a 32 on the back nine at windswept Royal Birkdale, July 13, and made him Europe's first player since James Braid in 1905-06, to win the British Open two years in a row.

By his victory, a four-stroke margin over Ian Poulter and by six over Norman – the 54-hole leader – Harrington earned a return invitation to the PGA Grand Slam of Golf.

The season-ending showcase of major champions is Oct. 14-15 at Mid Ocean Club in Bermuda.

“Obviously, winning a major puts you in a special club,” said Harrington, following a 1-under-par 69 and 72-hole total of 3-over-par 283. “Winning two of them puts you in a new club altogether.”

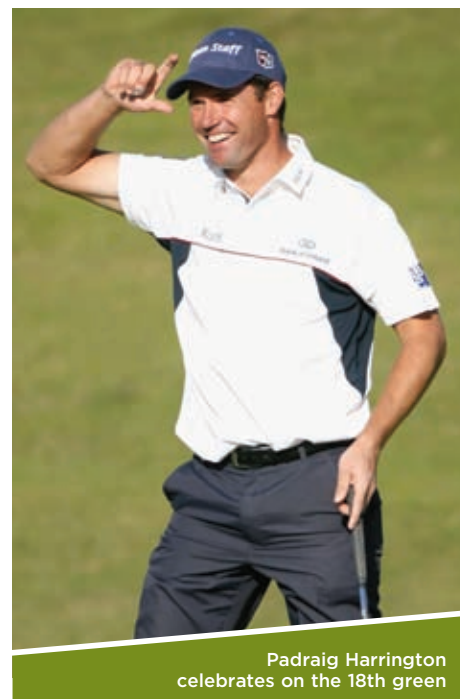

The 53-year-old Norman, a part-time golfer, nearly stole the headlines for what could have been the story of the year.

Still on his honeymoon with tennis great Chris Evert, Norman built a two-stroke lead heading into the final round. Despite boyeys on his first three holes Sunday, Norman still owned a one-stroke lead with nine to play.

But, Norman's hopes faded with eight bogeys in gusts that reached 40 mph, and closed with a 77 to tie for third with Henrik Stenson.

“Where does it rank in those?” replied Norman when asked to recall his past 54-hole leads in majors that came up short. “Probably not as high as some of the other ones. Quite honestly, I'm sure I surprised a lot of people.”

In the event of an injury or a dual winner in a major Championship, The PGA of America has developed a formula to complete the PGA Grand Slam of Golf field. This equation incorporates active past major winners and how they compete in this year's major events. The point system awards 100 points for a 2nd place finish in a major event, 92 for 3rd, 85 for 4th, 79 for 5th, 74 for 6th, 70 for 7th, all the way thru 70th place, which receives 4 points.

Harrington also had his share of surprises, having injured his right wrist eight days earlier, leaving the 36-year-old limited to only nine holes of practice and for three swings on the eve of his title defense.

Yet, his wrist was strong enough to hit all the shots at the right moment.

“It was a great distraction for me,” said Harrington. “It took a lot of pressure off me. It took a lot of stress off me. The fact that I didn't play three practice rounds like normal was a big bonus. I was very fresh going into the weekend, and this 36 holes was a real battle.”

Harrington grabbed the lead from Norman on the par-3 12th when Norman missed a 10-foot par putt. Then, Poulter birdied the 16th and saved par with a 15-footer on the final hole for a 69.

Harrington then responded with his brand of clutch shots, hitting a 3-wood into the wind to 40 feet on the par-5 15th and two-putting for birdie for a two-stroke lead. Then, he added a 5-wood approach on the 17th that bounded onto the green and up a ridge, stopping four feet away for eagle.

He made the putt for a four-stroke advantage and eased to a final two-putt par on the 18th hole.

“I enjoyed the claret jug so much I didn't want to give it back,” said Harrington.

“Padraig played brilliantly today,” said Norman, “even though he tried to let it get away in the middle of the round. He came back and performed brilliantly, and he finished like a true champion.”
