2018 MGM RESORTS NBA SUMMER LEAGUE RULES

All non-tournament games played during NBA Summer Leagues will be played under the following rules:

- Four 10-minute quarters
- Eight-minute halftime
- 10-minute warm-up period prior to the start of each game
- Teams will be in the penalty on the 10th team foul of each quarter or second in the last two minutes
- Players foul out on 10th personal foul
- Delay-of-game violation will be assessed for when a free throw shooter ventures fully beyond the three-point line between free throw attempts
- Two full timeouts per half
- Mandatory timeouts will be taken at the first stoppage of play after 5:59 and 2:59 of each quarter
- A timeout taken by a team will negate the next mandatory timeout in that quarter (a mandatory timeout will not be tied to a team if occurring first)
- Timeouts do not carry over
- All timeouts will be 1:45 in duration

OVERTIME

- Two-minute overtime period, if necessary
- Each team is allowed one timeout
- Penalty begins on the second team foul
- The second overtime period is sudden death (first team to score a point wins)

All other NBA rules apply.

Tournament games played during the NBA Summer League (Las Vegas) will be played under the same playing rules as the non-tournament games except:

- Players foul out with their sixth personal foul during the tournament
- All overtime periods are two minutes

Mark Daigneault

Summer League Head Coach

Mark Daigneault (DAYG-nalt) enters his fifth season as head coach of the Oklahoma City Blue and makes his third appearance as head coach of the Thunder's summer league squad.

During the 2017-18 campaign, the Blue made its third playoff appearance in four seasons with Daigneault at the helm after finishing the regular season at the top of the Midwest Division and ranking third in the Western Conference.

The Blue wrapped up a franchise record-setting season in 2016-17, tallying a franchise-record 34 wins, finishing as the regular-season Western Conference Champions and advancing to the Western Conference Finals for the first time under Daigneault.

In 2015-16, the Blue led the NBA G League in rebounding with 48.1 boards a game. Daigneault joined Billy Donovan's Thunder coaching staff midseason on Feb. 17 in place of Thunder assistant Maurice Cheeks, who was sidelined for six weeks due to hip surgery. Daigneault remained with the Thunder for the conclusion of the 2015-16 season and entirety of the Thunder's postseason campaign to the Western Conference Finals.

In his first season at the helm of the Thunder's NBA G League team, Daigneault led the Blue to a 28-22 record and an appearance in the NBAGL Western Conference Semifinals.

Under his watch the past four seasons, the Blue has seen six players called up to NBA rosters (Semaj Christon, Dwight Buycks, Josh Huestis and Reggie Williams) and seven Thunder players assigned (Semaj Christon, Terrance Ferguson, Josh Huestis, Grant Jerrett, Dakari Johnson, Mitch McGary and Cameron Payne).

Daigneault came to Oklahoma City after spending his previous four years working under Donovan at the University of Florida, where he most recently held the position of Assistant to the Head Coach. Throughout his four years at Florida, the Gators totaled a record of 120-30 (.800), won three SEC titles and advanced to the Elite Eight each year. In his final season with UF (2013-14), the Gators became the first SEC team to go 18-0 in conference play and went on to win the SEC Championship and advance to the Final Four.

Prior to his time at Florida, Daigneault spent three seasons as an assistant coach at Holy Cross. During Daigneault's tenure, the Crusaders finished as runner-up of the Patriot League Championship in 2008-09.

A 2007 graduate of the University of Connecticut, Daigneault served as a student manager with the Huskies under Jim Calhoun from 2003-07. While at UCONN, the Huskies won the 2004 NCAA Championship and claimed three Big East titles, posting a combined record of 103-32 (.763). A native of Leominster, Mass., Daigneault holds a master's degree in sports management from the University of Florida.

OKLAHOMA CITY THUNDER 2018 SUMMER LEAGUE NOTES

Summer Fun: The Oklahoma City Thunder is set to return to Las Vegas, Nev. for the 2018 MGM Resorts NBA Summer League for the second time. Oklahoma City's 2018 summer league squad features Thunder roster players Terrance Ferguson and Dakari Johnson, along with two-way players PJ Dozier and Daniel Hamilton and 2018 draft picks Devon Hall and Kevin Hervey. Members of the Thunder's G League affiliate, the Oklahoma City Blue, Michael Carrera, Michael Cobbins, Justin Leon and Rashawn Thomas will also compete for Oklahoma City. Mark Daigneault, head coach of the Oklahoma City Blue, will lead Oklahoma City's summer league entry with Thunder assistant coach Vin Bhavnani serving as associate head coach.

2017-18 Quick Recap: After finishing the regular season by winning each of the last three games by an average of 14 points and earning a 48-34 record on the season (second in the Northwest Division), the Thunder advanced to the postseason for the eighth time in the past nine years, earning the second-most playoff berths of any NBA team behind San Antonio. The No. 4 seed Thunder produced its ninth straight season with a .500 or better record, one of just three teams (Houston and San Antonio) to maintain such a record in each of the last nine seasons. Oklahoma City was one of just four teams in the league to be in the Top 10 in both offensive and defensive efficiency (Golden State, Houston, Toronto) last season in which the team ranked 10th in defensive rating with 104.7 and in offensive rating with 107.6.

Blue Review: The Thunder's G League affiliate, the Oklahoma City Blue earned a 28-22 record this season and clinched the Midwest division title and a playoff berth after defeating the Austin Spurs (San Antonio Spurs affiliate and NBA G League Champions) 98-94 on March 22. Oklahoma City ranked fifth in the G League in three-pointers made per game (12.7). The Blue has a defense that ranked sixth in opponent turnovers per game (17.9) and eighth in steals per game (9.56). Two-way player Daniel Hamilton led the team in assists in 39 of his 45 games and was fourth in the league in assists per game (8.0) and 11th in rebounds per game (9.0). Hamilton has also notched a league-leading nine triple-doubles last season, including three straight from Nov. 18-24. Michael Cobbins held the second-best field goal percentage among G Leaguers with .673 (175-260). Additionally, Rashawn Thomas was named to Team USA for the FIBA World Cup Qualifying first round, the teams' second such selection this season.

Winter Wonders: After starting the 2017-18 season with an 8-12 record through the first 20 games, Oklahoma City posted a 40-22 (.645) record (53-win pace) during the final 62 games of the season. During this span, the Thunder compiled win streaks of six, seven and eight games. The Thunder's .645 winning percentage after Dec. 1 represents the fifth-best record in the NBA during this period. Additionally, with a healthy starting lineup of Anthony, George, Adams, Roberson and Westbrook, the Thunder went a perfect 14-0 with a 10.7+ net rating (which would have ranked first in the NBA if stretched over the length of the season).

	RECORD	POINTS	FG%
Before Dec. 1	8-12	102.3	43.7
After Dec. 1	40-22	109.6	46.2

Best vs. Best: With a 108-102 win at Houston on April 7, Oklahoma City improved to 6-3 against the three teams with a win percentage of .700 or better this season (Houston, Golden State, Toronto). This stands as the best record and most wins against those teams of any other NBA franchise this season.

Blue Crash the Glass: The Oklahoma City Blue averaged 45.8 rebounds per game last season, which ranks seventh in the NBA G League. Of those rebounds, the Blue grabbed 34.2 defensive boards, which tied for fifth most in the league. Daniel Hamilton was the top rebounding guard in the NBAGL, grabbing 9.0 per game, good for 11th among all players. Rashawn Thomas averaged 7.3 rebounds per game, second on the team and in his last nine games, Thomas averaged 9.9 boards a game.

Turnover a New Leaf: Over the 2017-18 campaign, Oklahoma City led the league in steals per game (9.06) and in opponent turnovers per game (16.0). Prior to last season, the Thunder had never finished within the Top 5 in these categories since they moved to Oklahoma City as their previous bests were 8.28 steals per game in 2012-13 and 15.2 opponent turnovers per game in 2013-14. Additionally, the Thunder topped the NBA leaderboard for deflections per game (16.8), forced turnovers on 15.9% of opponent possessions, which led the league, and recovered the most loose balls each game (9.5).

Elite Company: Since the start of the 2009-10 season, the Thunder has won five Northwest Division titles, reached the Conference Finals on four occasions, the NBA Finals once and amassed a record of 466-256 (.645). Based on winning percentage, the Oklahoma City Thunder ranks as the seventh most winning team among the four major professional sports (NBA, NFL, MLB & NHL) during that time.

OKC is Fan Friendly: The Thunder once again played in front of a packed house at Chesapeake Energy Arena on opening night vs. New York on Oct. 19, 2017, recording its 300th consecutive sellout (including both regular season and playoffs). Oklahoma City was also named first in the league in fan experience following a league-wide audit and ranked third in the NBA in local TV ratings, fifth in season ticket subscriptions and renewals, and seventh in social media audience and merchandise sales. Fans in attendance last season have enjoyed the improvements made to Chesapeake Energy Arena for the Thunder's 10th anniversary including a Thunder Cares community outreach display, Oklahoma Sports Hall of Fame viewing area, season ticket member recognition wall, interactive digital display where fans can share their stories, KultureCity sensory-inclusion area for fans that needs a calm, quiet atmosphere, digital Fan Assist to provide fans with real-time support, and much more.

Sustaining Success: Oklahoma City holds a 489-315 (.608) record since 2008-09, which ranks as the second-best in the NBA behind San Antonio (565-239, .703). Over the past 10 seasons, the Thunder's $1.51 million cost per win ranks third best in the NBA (includes regular season and playoffs) and a Thunder player has led the league in scoring in six of those 10 seasons and cracked the Top 10 every year, making Oklahoma City the only team to do so. After the 2008-09 campaign in which Oklahoma City won 20 games after a 3-29 start, the Thunder found ways to improve the club in each of the four subsequent seasons. With a 60-22 record during the 2012-13 season, Oklahoma City became just the second team in NBA history (Boston, 1955-1960) to increase its winning percentage for five consecutive seasons (while maintaining a winning percentage of .700 or better in two of those seasons). After finishing the 2017-18 season with a record of 48-34, OKC is now one of three teams (Houston and San Antonio) to maintain a .500 or better record in each of the last nine seasons.

Investing in Development: The Oklahoma City Thunder has placed an emphasis on using its development team and investing in the development process. When Oklahoma City purchased its G League affiliate in 2008, it entered the season as one of just three teams to have a single affiliation with a G League club. Nine seasons later, all 28 teams in the G League are in single affiliation with an NBA organization. Since the 2008-09 season, the Thunder has helped lead the way in using the G League as a place to develop and grow talent. The Thunder has assigned 31 different players to its G League affiliate since 2008, sixth in the league. The Thunder has also had 24 players called up to the NBA since the 2008-09 season, which ranks sixth.
