Our very own Santa Cruz Warriors President Chris Murphy has been named the 2017 NBA D-League Team Executive of the year! The award is determined by peer voting and was presented to Murphy at the league's Sales and Marketing Meetings in Indianapolis last week. "We see our D-League team not only as a chance for players and coaches to gain experience and skills, but also a place to develop executive talent," said Golden State Warriors President and Chief Operating Officer Rick Welts. "Chris has been a valuable part of the Warriors organization for 12 years, and when he accepted the role of President in Santa Cruz two seasons ago, he recognized the value of getting broader general management experience. It's a great honor for him and a recognition of the Warriors' operating philosophy and connection between our D-League and NBA teams."

The Santa Cruz Warriors also won a league-high 12 awards at the NBA D-League Sales and Marketing meetings in Indianapolis last week. The team was recognized for its achievement in categories ranging from ticket sales, sponsorships, community programs and social responsibility. Awards won by the Sea Dubs include 1,000+ Full Season Tickets, 150+ New Full Season Tickets, 80%+ Season Ticket Renewal Rate, 10%+ Cash Sponsorship Award Growth Award, 75+ Community Appearances, and Top 3 Social Responsibility Programs. Congrats to our team behind-the-scenes!
